MUSSEL SURVEYING

with TTF Watershed Partnership

TTF is leading surveys of local creeks for freshwater mussels. Come join us!

Mussels filter pollutants out of water, cleaning our waterways and playing an important role in ecosystems. There are about 300 species of freshwater mussels nationwide! Mussels are the most imperiled species in our region and are rarely found where they were once common.

The Partnership for the Delaware Estuary is working to help these mussels, but the last comprehensive survey was completed about 100 years ago... so it's time to survey again! Collecting and reporting this data will help scientists understand these organisms and to help them make a comeback.

Say Cheese, Tacony Creek Park!

Posted on May 16, 2014 by Brynn

TTF joined forces this week with partner Philadelphia Parks and Recreation (PPR) to host a Tacony Creek Park photo expedition for budding young photojournalists from Juniata!

We started our walk at Juniata's Ferko Playground, right around the corner from the I Street and Ramona Avenue gateway to Tacony Creek Park. Lindsay Deal, PPR Out of School Activities Coordinator and former TTF Intern, taught a group of 13 youth the basics of photography. TTF then shared our Watershed Heroes lesson, which teaches how our streets connect to our creeks!
